

CHINA'S EV OFFENSIVE

Why BYD's Stella Li
terrifies the auto industry

TOP SHELF

A FIZZY AFFAIR

By Elin McCoy
Photograph by Janelle Jones
Prop styling by Liberty Fennell

Fleur de Miraval Petite Fleur Champagne

This mouthwatering rosé bubbly is the new, less expensive version of Brad Pitt's lush and impressive $350 Fleur de Miraval. Similar in style to the grand vin with crushed dried flower scents and bright energy, the Petite Fleur trades some complexity and depth for pretty notes of lemongrass, citrus and toast—perfect for a romantic aperitif.

$110

Ayala A/18 Le Blanc de Blancs Champagne

The newest 100% chardonnay bubbly from a revitalized Champagne house famed in the 1920s and '30s. Light, vivid and intense, with bright jasmine aromas and flavor notes of blood oranges, it pairs well with scampi and smoked salmon.

$130

2022 Adami Vigneto Giardino Rive di Colbertaldo Valdobbiadene Prosecco Superiore

The best producers in Italy's Veneto region have been aiming to elevate prosecco beyond affordable, uninteresting party pours. This crisp, tangy, single-vineyard award winner succeeds with gentle sweet fruit, salty minerality and a depth of savory flavors. Lower in alcohol, it's oh-so-easy to sip and priced to party.

$26

2022 Paltrinieri Radice Lambrusco di Sorbara

Lambrusco from Italy's Emilia-Romagna was once viewed as fruity alcoholic cola. Now we've rediscovered top examples, such as this frizzante rosé. Fresh, dry and refreshing, it comes with aromas of cherries and roses and tastes of tart berries. This is fun, food-friendly fizz resembles a natural pét-nat sparkler.

$22

